Workforce Trends

Population

Fremont County's population grew 209 to 12,819 people between 2005 and 2015. The county experienced modest growth over the last decade as tourism-related industries benefit from a close proximity to Yellowstone National Park. Fremont County is part the Rexburg Micropolitan Statistical Area.

St. Anthony, the county seat, has a population of 3,442. Ashton, the second largest city, had a population of 1,051 in 2015.

Concentrated economic development efforts and the change from a two-year community college to four-year Brigham Young University-Idaho in neighboring Madison County initially contributed to continued growth in the southern end of the county. From 2005 to 2010 the county's population increased 5 percent. Beginning in 2011, however, population declined each year as people moved more toward urban areas.

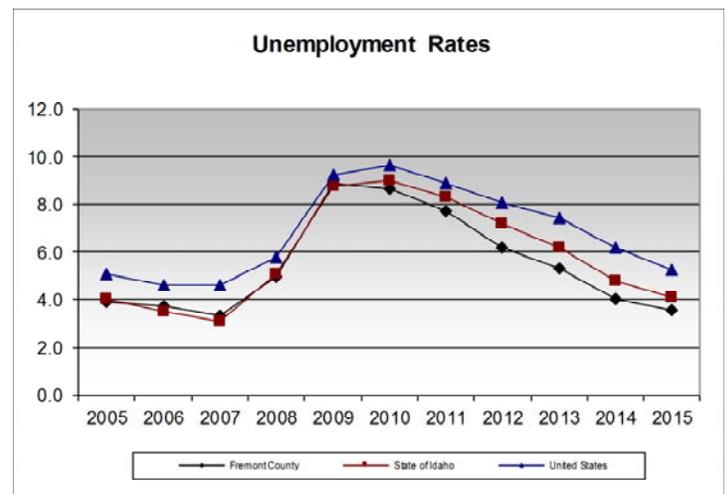

Labor Force & Employment

Fremont County, bordering Montana and Wyoming, has three significant cities on U.S. Highway 20, which is heavily traveled by tourists headed for Yellowstone National Park, Henry's Lake and Harriman State Park. The county attracts many locals to its recreation areas but also draws national and international tourists.

The closure of a sawmill in the 1980s and relocation of the U.S. Forest Service office to nearby Idaho Falls several years ago hurt the local economy, and rebounding has been difficult. Economic development initiatives are currently underway to strengthen the counties in and around the Teton Valley and Yellowstone.

Since 2005, the unemployment rates have fluctuated from a low of 3.3 percent in 2007 to a high of 8.9 in 2010. The labor force has remained strong, growing 18.8 percent over the last decade.

Government provides the most nonfarm payroll jobs, primarily through the state Juvenile Correction Center in St. Anthony. Federal and state governments together own 70 percent of the land so land management agencies employ many workers. Trade, construction and leisure and hospitality also account for large percentages of the county's jobs.
