Workforce Trends

Population

Lincoln County's population has risen 10.7 percent in the last 10 years to 5,271 in 2016, outpacing other counties in the region. The city of Shoshone, considered the gateway to Sun Valley, is the county seat with a population of 1,488. Lincoln County continues to rely on agriculture with several large dairies contributing to the industry's regional growth. Manufacturing was nearly nonexistent prior to Glanbia Food's whey processing plant in Richfield and Rocky Mountain Hardware, which machines high-end brass fixtures and hardware in Shoshone. As a bedroom community to both the Wood River Valley and Jerome/Twin Falls, workers have an easy commute. Affordable housing continues to be an issue in the Wood River Valley resulting in growth of subdivisions and residential construction over the long term. An inventory of building lots exists in Lincoln County following the real estate bubble, leaving a high ownership ratio of 73 percent and low multi-family at 4.4 percent. The average household size is large—3.24.

Labor Force & Employment

Unemployment has been a roller coaster in Lincoln County. The seasonally adjusted rate peaked at 13.1 percent in 2010 from a record low of 3.5 percent in 2007. Since 2010 the unemployment rate has steadily decreased to a low of 4.5 percent in 2015 and 2016. Economic diversification has created new jobs over the last five years, mainly in manufacturing and the services. Dairies have brought stability to a workforce that traditionally sought jobs in seasonal industries such as tourism, landscaping and agriculture. Prior to the recession, retail had been popping up to serve the highway traffic between Twin Falls and the Wood River Valley. Manufacturing jobs are stable and raising area wages. Hay, grains, corn and other crops that can be green chopped for dairy silage are the primary commodities. Wages & Income

Per capita income in Lincoln County has spiked over the last decade increasing 44 percent, doubling the state and nation's growth. In 2015, Lincoln County' per capita ranked 6th regionally and 19th statewide. Per capita income decreased nearly one percent in 2015 from 2014. Lincoln's per capita income was ranked 35th in 2009 when milk prices were in the trough.

From 2014 to 2015, Lincoln's average covered employment's wage grew by 2.3 percent with a three percent drop in average employment. The outlook is for continued slow but steady growth even with the sustained higher population growth. Wages are expected to remain on the low end, due to the mix of service and ag jobs.
